

KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES—Pa Gets No Credit.

The Mayflower

I much admire that stately ship in which our fathers made the trip from England's stormy shore; unless I've badly crossed my wires, there must have been ten thousand sires upon its decks, or more. It must have been a rubber craft, so it would stretch, both fore and aft, to hold so many men; the pilgrim fathers were so thick the captain couldn't heave a brick, but he'd hit eight or ten. One hundred sailed, the record claims, and some were children, some were dimes, one hundred made the trip; yet there are countless families whose bold ancestors crossed the seas, on that elastic ship. I've traveled east, I've traveled west; wherever I have been a guest, the host would proudly say: "My grandfathers' grandfathers' grandfathers' dad sailed in the Mayflower, when a lad, to Massachusetts bay." I've stopped at times in swell hotels, where all the haughty gents and belles looked on me as a wreck, because I am the only skate whose fathers didn't pile their freight upon the Mayflower's deck. My father's father's father's sire a passage ticket to book by wire ere telegraphs were known; and thus he missed that famous ship, and didn't see the skipper skip, and I am left alone.

AMATEUR VAUDEVILLE AT BELASCO THEATER

Given for Charity Under Auspices of the Sisterhood of the Eighth Street Temple.

Musical Numbers and Cabaret Diversions Received With Enthusiasm by Large Audience.

Not in many seasons has the Belasco Theater been the scene of a vaudeville show so surpassing in brilliancy, merit, and its effect upon an audience that has been the local talent of Washington last evening. Under the auspices of the Sisterhood of the Eighth Street Temple, for charity. There were originality, grace, art, beauty and melody in the entire gamut, from grand opera to ragtime, to commend it, and if the judgment of the audience was not swayed in its enthusiastic applause there was not a performer on the stage who was not entitled to bountiful praise. It was an entertainment that reflected credit upon its designers and upon the performers.

An orchestral introduction, under the direction of Arthur Melville, included Cello's "Our National President," Friedman's "Savoy Rhapsody," and "Trombonium," by Willard. Helen White, soprano; Sadie Krupshaw, contralto; Arthur Green and Dr. Leonid Gushak, tenors; Emanuel Simons, baritone; Arthur J. Gravelle, basso, sang the Lucia sextet, followed by the quartet from "Rigoletto," by Helen White, Sadie Krupshaw, Arthur Green and Emanuel Simons. Then came the cabaret diversions, including a graceful waltz by Dorothy Stiefel and Harold Strauss; a foxtrot by Helen and Stanley Fischer, and a gavotte by Esther Kahn and Morris Nordlinger.

The Cabaret Features.

After H. H. Vieuxtemps' "Ballade et Polonaise, opus 28," by Ralph Goldsmith, violinist, a pretty and effective song sketch, "One Night," was staged, with Flora Brylawski as the soloist, assisted by Miss Mildred and Lucille Wallerstein, Elsie Picard, Ruth Grossman, Miriam Kiehl and Mildred Minter. It was followed by "The Song of Songs," "The Child's Prayer," and "I'm Afraid of the Big, Big Moon." Archie D. Engel, prestidigitator and magician, who had been gotten well into his deft feats and tricks when he was challenged from the audience by Rose Kaufman, for October, Dorothy Stiefel, for November, and Beatrice Hahn, for December.

Managers of Entertainment.

The entertainment was staged by Julian Brylawski, as director, and Sydney Selinger, as assistant director. The executive committee of the Sisterhood of the Eighth Street Temple, under whose auspices it was given, was composed of Mrs. Abram Simon and Mrs. Myer Feldman; the flower committee, of Mrs. Harry Hahn and Mrs. Abe C. Mayer; the advertising committee, of Mrs. Marie Blum and Mrs. Eva Hexter; and Miss Ruth Kronheim was the page.

Amidst the boxes where Emilie Berliner, M. Goldenberg, A. Lerner, Joseph Straubinger, Rev. Dr. Abram Simon, Isaac G. Selinger, Lydia Feyer, Judge Milton Straubinger, Dr. J. Kaufman, Sidney Bieber, J. M. Stein and Leon Tolstoy.

WALK TO TAKOMA PARK TAKEN BY 230 PERSONS

Second Largest Crowd in History of Wanderlusters Enjoys Sunday Stroll.

Business Meeting to Be Held Tuesday Evening—Hike Next Week to Start at Cabin John Bridge.

With 230 persons in the ranks of the wanderlusters yesterday when the walkers of Washington assembled for their regular Sunday afternoon outing, the crowd was the largest ever to have been present since September a year ago, when 232 followed the flag. Here is the "official" story of the jaunt: "The walk was first class, and the autumn day was as perfect as one could ask. From Michigan avenue we followed Harvard road to the east, then north of Soldiers' Home grounds, around by the cemetery and then through Fort Totten, winding in and around the old earthworks, which formed one of the numerous defenses of Washington during the civil war period. From the fort one descends to Woodlawn, past Martin's store, or what was formerly known as Jack Kelley's corner. Just beyond a few minutes' rest on a commanding hill, similar to the matches scene at Mount St. Alban, was enjoyed by every one. Then, adding variety to the route, the walkers descended to the old old Wayne liquor political machine. Just before announcing his candidacy Mr. Betts had come out openly against prohibition and announced his intention of running the Anti-Saloon League management refused to run the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Betts himself ran away from the meeting and proffered debate in the home town, at which over a thousand of the representative voters of his county were present (eight different communities) and special trains of special cars to hear the Betts record exposed by the Anti-Saloon League superintendent. In due time the Anti-Saloon League, on account of his having antagonized the temperance element, notified Mr. Betts that they could not carry him as a candidate. The three candidates who finally lined up for the primaries, in view of the strong sentiment and the fact that when the district, all pledged themselves explicitly to vote to submit the question of national prohibition to the states.

Truck Gardens Sighted.

"As we neared Takoma Park, our destination, truck gardens were sighted. There were cabbages, string beans, and lettuce, celery and turnips, but the latter seemed about the only article palatable at this time of the year. At one point, where the trail was narrow, the crowd formed almost a semi-circle, stretching out for probably 500 feet, in single, double and triple rows. In fact, the line reached one near by to 1,000 feet in length, as far as the eye could reach each way on account of the intervening trees.

"Tuesday evening a business meeting is to be held at the home of G. A. Gambs, 2617 University place. Any one interested in the subject of prohibition is invited to be present, but especially the leaders are urged to be out, as several matters of importance are to be discussed. The meeting will be given, leaving from the east or south end of Connecticut avenue bridge at 8 o'clock, a footmarch walk from either Chevy Chase or Mount Pleasant car lines."

SEES CAUSE FOR HOPE IN ELECTION RESULTS

Anti-Saloon League Counts New York Representatives-Elect for National Prohibition.

Election results in New York state have been taken by the Anti-Saloon League as indicative of fresh strength for the "dry" voters of the nation. The league says the three congressional elections in New York state to fill vacancies resulted in the victory of three republicans, who will stand for the submission of a prohibition amendment to the constitution.

Anti-Saloon League Statement.

The statement by the Anti-Saloon League is as follows: "In the case of former Representative William S. Bennett, who has a record in the New York legislature and in Congress in favor of legislation designed to allow the people to settle the liquor question for themselves, the liquor question was not the major issue. It was, however, disgraced by the fact that the liquor men themselves, on account of Mr. Bennett's temperance record, and his majority in the legislature, were much more than sufficient to elect him to the legislature. The Anti-Saloon League management refused to run the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Betts himself ran away from the meeting and proffered debate in the home town, at which over a thousand of the representative voters of his county were present (eight different communities) and special trains of special cars to hear the Betts record exposed by the Anti-Saloon League superintendent. In due time the Anti-Saloon League, on account of his having antagonized the temperance element, notified Mr. Betts that they could not carry him as a candidate. The three candidates who finally lined up for the primaries, in view of the strong sentiment and the fact that when the district, all pledged themselves explicitly to vote to submit the question of national prohibition to the states.

Says All Were Committed.

"Largely on the strength of this all three candidates in the thirty-first district then committed themselves in similar manner. "This outcome in New York is second only to the prohibition gain in Ohio in its bearing on the national prohibition proposition before Congress this winter. Only three votes out of forty-three from New York were cast in favor of submitting the prohibition amendment last December. These and the three new men elected since that vote are likely to be reinforced by others who were absent or who voted wrong last winter, and have been 'seeing things,' as the Anti-Saloon League also made a big gain in pledged members of the next New York legislature and in the wet and dry elections this week."

REHEARSAL TONIGHT OF ANTHONY PAGEANT

Elaborate Program in Special Commemoration of Noted Equal Suffrage Leader.

Rehearsals are to begin in earnest tonight for the big Susan B. Anthony pageant which is to end the convention here, starting December 6, of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage. Miss Hazel MacKaye, the author of the production, has arranged a scheme by which the group participating in each of the "episodes" into which the pageant is divided has to devote only one night a week for four weeks to the work.

Miss MacKaye plans to go through with two or three episodes in an evening's work and each participant in the production will appear in the same number of divisions of the whole. Tonight and tomorrow the rehearsals will be held in the Holton Gymnasium, 1742 Church street northwest. Wednesday night a large group will meet in Miller's Hall in the Belasco Theater building, and Friday the two biggest scenes will be considered at the National Rifle Army.

Principals Work Separately.

This scheme does not include the rehearsals of the principals, who will, of course, have to work separately. Miss MacKaye is to be in personal charge of all rehearsals. Miss Elsie Hill, who has just returned from the San Francisco woman voters' convention; Miss Constance Drexel and other prominent suffragists are to be the speakers at a meeting scheduled for the Home Club of the Interior Department at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Miss Drexel has served as a Red Cross nurse in France and is to discuss the necessity for women to vote against war. Miss Hill will speak on the work accomplished at the recent convention.

Program of Music.

An attractive program of music has been arranged. Miss Vera Budd will sing "The Slave Song," by Del Riego, and "Doris," by Nivon, with violin obligato and accompanied at the piano by Miss Florence Traubman. Miss Olive Budd will give a violin selection, "Dolore," by Carl Bohm.

The sons are James C. and Harry N. Spottswood, and the daughter is Mrs. J. Frank White. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, with Rev. The steamboat men have been buying his paintings, and the officers' quarters of most of the steamers contain specimens of Selby's work.
